

Lewis the frog

Once there was a frog called Lewis. He was lime green with light brown eyes. It was a crisp cold winter day in the frog family pond, all the water had frozen! All of them were frozen cold. They only had a manky, torn, cold and old blanket daddy frog had found next to an oak tree. And made the most they could out of it! Lewis was desperate to get in the water. All the frogs tried to break the ice but it was frozen solid! Lewis decided to give up it was too hard.

It was time for dinner Lewis the frog was so hungry. He gulped down his flies and slurped his water down and had seconds. Lewis went to sleep under a tree trunk! He woke up and tried and tried again to break the ice he eventually got a crack. They persuaded Granddad to crack it until it was fully cracked for the rest of the day the frog family swam happily in the pond!
