LOUIS

THE FROG

MYSTERY

STORY

One day in spring there was a frog called Louis. He He lived in a small mushroom. Louis did not have any friends, parents or families.

Every day was the same day for Louis, he would wake up in the morning and watch all the birds, badgers, foxes and mice play and have sun all day long.

One morning Louis was standing on top of his mushroom and he saw the mice.

wanted to join he asked they said no. The mice were having a race across the field, through the woods back to the wooden log like they did. Every sunny day. Half way through the race, one of playground in but whenever

The mice tripped on a log and fell down the hill into the water. None of the mice could swim to save him but Louis could. He saw the mouse was drowning and carefully hopped down the hill and jumped into the water to save him. Louis told the mouse to get on his back and he did. Louis hopped back up the hill carefully and perched the mouse down on the log he tripped on.

All of the other mice were huddling and decided that Louis the mysterious frog could join in with their games and he had a better life. All

Although the other animals in the woods did not let him play their games at least the mice did.

Louis's life changed from that day forward. He no longer got up every morning to watch the birds, badgers, snakes and mice. He got up every morning and joined in with all the fun with the mice and they became his family.
