

Louis the Frog and the mystery

Once there was a frog called Louis. Early in the morning he decided he would hop onto a lovely lily pad and float about in the morning sun. He lay there wondering about all sorts of things. He sat on his lily pad, and he decided he would go for a dip. He then saw something shimmering. He dived down and picked up the shiny object. He put the object onto the pad and hopped on he couldn't believe his eyes it was a massive gleaming diamond. The mystery is how did the diamond get there in the first place.
