

Louis and the Missing Tadpole

Once, there was a frog called Louis. He had ten brothers and sisters. He has a mum and dad, a granddad and a grandma. One day, Louis' brother Sam, said there was a missing tadpole. Louis told his mum and dad that there was a missing tadpole. The news spread to every frog they passed or saw. The frogs all said that they haven't seen the tadpole. They all wondered where it could be. Grandpa thought for a while. Then he said " I think I know where it could be! It might be playing hide and seek." Everyone thought that might be where the tadpole might be. So they all went and searched where it might be, but there was no sight of the missing tadpole.

Louis thought. He thought all night and all day, until something came into his mind. He said " I know where it can be. It could be in the frog store!" Everyone thought. Then they just remembered that that tadpole was the naughtiest tadpole! So it could be in the frog store. That day, they all went to the frog store to search for the tadpole. They went into the food store, the furniture store, a restaurant but there was still no sight of the tadpole. Then Mum thought. She suddenly looked at the sports shop and said that he might be in there. So off they went into the sports shop. They searched everywhere but still no sight of that naughty tadpole. Then Louis thought. He remembered that the tadpole liked to disobey people, so he might be in the staff room. Louis without telling his parents, went into the staff room and searched. He saw a little tail wagging and thought that might be the tadpole. He reached out and grabbed the tail. The tadpole came out and saw his brother. Louis told mum that the tadpole was in the staff room and everyone came in. Mum was so pleased with Louis they all celebrated. They all went home and told the tadpole to never run away again. The tadpole promised he wont run again. They all lived happily ever after.

The end

By Hayley