

Louis the frog

Louis had lost his Lilly pad. It was very old and had lots of holes in it and it was gone. It was the only house that he had and now he was homeless. Where could it be?

He was walking by the river looking everywhere for it, nobody could of stolen it because nobody would wont it. So were could it be?

Louis went to harry the hedgehogs house and asked harry if he had seen his home. 'No' said Harry 'why don't you go and ask Simon the squirrel' 'Ok' said Louis.

When Louis got to Simon's home he saw him in the garden fixing something in his shed. 'What are you doing here' said Simon. 'Do you know were my Lilly-pad is' said Louis. 'No I'm busy' said Simon, that's not very nice thought Louis as he walked off.

That night Louis was walking by the river when he saw some light from the other side of the river. He swam over and saw harry. 'What is going on' he said. 'It your surprise, we all knew that you wanted a new home so we took yours and fixed it. 'Thank you' said Louis. 'It amazing, I will sleep very well tonight.'
