

One sunny morning Louis woke up, put on his school clothes and hopped off down the lane. His freckles were shinning in the sun as he approached Bill's house Bill was waiting for him. Bill did not know that he was going to get covered in rotten egg at school. Both frogs looked mischievous.

They got to school and bill did his work as normal, he did geography and then went into maths where he got told off for not doing his homework. But then Bill went into literacy, he opened the door and Crash, rotten eggs were falling all around him.

When Bill got home from school he had to go straight into the bath because he smelt so bad!! Louis was coming for a sleepover at Bills house so he decidede to ask his Mum to make them scrambled eggs for their tea. Both Bill and Louis went to bed giggling !!!